ABOUT ME

I am a third-year Mechanical Engineering student with a passion for applying technical knowledge and skills to solve real-world problems. During my academic journey, I have gained hands-on experience and developed a strong foundation in engineering principles. My enthusiasm for learning and teaching has driven me to take on roles such as a tutor during my second year and a student assistant in this year, where I have been able to support my peers and contribute to the academic community.

In addition to my academic pursuits, I am actively involved in community service. I work at NEMISA (National Electronic Media Institute of South Africa), where I teach digital literacy to members of the community. This role allows me to empower individuals with essential digital skills, bridging the digital divide and fostering a more inclusive society.

My experiences have honed my communication, leadership, and problem-solving abilities, making me well-equipped to take on challenging tasks and collaborate effectively with diverse teams. I am eager to bring my technical expertise and passion for community service to new opportunities and continue making a positive impact.
